Roosevelt to Call Leaders For Discussion; Action Expected Soon.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Violent opposition in congressional circles today appeared to have gained a few days "breathing spell" for the opponents of nation-wide rationing gasoline.

With a bi-partisan group of 100 congressmen banded together against the proposal, President Roosevelt and his top war advisers deferred until the "nearish future" any announcement on the program to conserve the tires of the country's 33,000,000 passenger cars.

The chief executive said he would call in the leaders of Capitol Hill to discuss the issue with them.

After a 40-minute conference between Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers, Archibald MacLeisch, director of the office of facts and figures and one of the conferees, announced merely that a statement would follow "in a matter of days."

While the "go sign" on rationing did not come forth from the White House meeting, the conferees reportedly did agree to proceed with an intensified country-wide campaign to collect scrap rubber. This is one of the steps advocated strongly in congress.

The campaign is expected to embrace nation-wide newspaper advertising and radio addresses on the extreme seriousness of the rubber situation by high government officials. It was understood that interested industries will contribute heavily toward financing the appeal.

Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, one of the officials who canvassed the rubber and rationing problem with the president, already has announced that the price of scrap rubber to be purchased by the Rubber Reserve company has been raised from $7 to $25 a ton to stimulate its collection.

Sponsors of the campaign, however, do not agree with the optimistic statements voiced before congressional committees that there are approximately 10,000,-

Suspect's Arrest Ends 6-Week Hunt For Check Passer

Mansfield police announced today that the arrest of a middle-aged Mansfield resident had ended a six-week search for a worthless check passer.

Carl Ackerman, alias Carl Myers, 42, of Mansfield, was arrested late yesterday on North Main street by Detectives Lee J. Remy and Oscar M. Krupp. They accuse him of passing at least seven worthless checks.

The arrest was made 24 hours after Ackerman had allegedly passed the seventh bad check at the Metz Oil company at 311 Bowman street.

Ackerman pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery when arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court

NAVY CEREMONY SUNDAY STARTS RECRUIT RUSH

Enlistments of 'Pearl Harbor Avengers' Spurred; Program At Park Complete.

Announcement this week of plans for a mass swearing-in of men in the navy at 2:25 p. m. tomorrow—six months to the minute after the first bomb fell on Pearl Harbor—has brought a rush of enlistments in the Mansfield area, W. G. Cox, officer in charge of the Navy Recruiting station here, reported today.

Ten additional enlistments late yesterday and this morning brought to 22 the number of men from the area who will take the Navy oath at ceremonies in Central park Sunday afternoon, Cox said. The number originally was expected to be no more than 12.

Cox also announced that Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the Richland Victory Civic committee, would act as master of ceremonies at the Sunday program starting at 1:30 p. m.

Ensign Richard L. Cullen of the Navy's district headquarters office in Cleveland will administer the oath to the recruits at precisely 2:25, as similar exercises are conducted simultaneously in at least 500 other cities of the nation. This is part of the Navy's national plan to swear in 10,000 "Avengers of Pearl Harbor" exactly six months after that attack started.

Mayor W. J. Locke and Rev. G. E. Swoyer will be speakers, and the Legion Drum and Bugle Corps will play. Arrangements have been made for a loud speaking system so that the crowd may hear the complete ceremonies. Marlyn Joyce Teeter will be presented in a patriotic dance.

Testaments and other gifts will be presented to the recruits by members of the Navy Mothers club.

The 22 recruits—plus any additional men from the area who may appear during the rest of today for enlistment this afternoon, will leave Monday to start training at the Naval Station in Great Lakes, Ill.

FENCES STATION

City Erecting Protection at Hedges Pumping Unit.

Using wire fencing left over from the job of encircling Woodland reservoir and the pumphouses in the Maxwell Springs area for sabotage protection, city workers were busy today erecting a protective fence around the Hedges street pumping station.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff said that the workers had been able to fence in the Maxwell pumps with less wire than was estimated.

Director Wolff announced at the same time that a contract had been signed with the Zediker Masonary company to erect brick veneer walls around three of the city's pumphouses in the Maxwell Springs area at a cost of $300.

Council appropriated $1,000 Tuesday night for the work of replacing stucco walls constantly in need of repair. Wolff said that the Castor, Hershey and Griebling wells would be given the brick facing. The city is supplying the material for the work.

Bittinger, state central committee chairman for the past two years, won the committee post for Ashland county at a recent caucus session in Mansfield although Richland county party leaders said later that Coshocton county should have produced the candidate this time under the party's rotary plan.

It was said in political circles that Charles Beer, Ashland county Democratic leader, will file against Bittinger. Beer charged

U. S. SALES TAX NEEDED, SAYS HOUSE GROUP

Committee Declares It Can't Raise $8,700,000,000 Without Levy.

MORGENTHAU TO REPORT

Individual and Corporation Assessments Certain To Be Higher.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The house ways and means committee was reported today to have put the administration on notice formally that its tax goal of $8,700,000,000 could not be achieved without a sales tax.

Informed sources said that Chairman Doughton (D-NC) and other high-ranking committeemen had told Secretary Morgenthau that they could not write that big a bill without overriding Morgenthau's opposition to some form of consumption tax.

Faced with that attitude by the committee, Morgenthau promised to make a written statement on the situation soon.

The committee thus far has proposed to raise only about $5,500,000,000, but has not started consideration of treasury recommendations that another $1,340,000,000 be raised by increased excise taxes—the last big item in Morgenthau's March 3 suggestions.

Committee members predicted it would be another month before a bill is presented to the house. When passed there, it will face perhaps six weeks of study in the senate.

Thus, it might go to President Roosevelt for signature by Sept. 1, but some members said there might be a repetition of the 1918 situation when congress waited until the turn of a new year before completing its labors.

In any event, much higher taxes for both individuals and corporations seemed assured, primarily because of the government's need for revenue. The ways and means committee has boosted corporation taxes by $2,500,000,000, primarily by raising surtaxes slightly and boosting the excess profits rate from a graduated scale with a 60 per cent top to a flat 94 per cent for all.

The individual normal tax has been raised from 4 to 6 per cent and personal exemptions have been lowered from $1,500 to $1,200 for married persons and from $750 to $500 for single persons.

All of the committee decisions have been tentative and Doughton said that "when we get all through and get the whole picture" of the new bill several changes might be made.

U. S. Air, Naval Forces Pursue Invasion Fleet

Toll of Enemy Ships Might Reach 20 After Humiliating Midway Defeat, Says Nimitz Spokesman; Carrier Ripped by Bombs, Torpedoes.

BULLETIN

HONOLULU—(INS)—Battered and pursued relentlessly by U. S. army, navy and marine corps bombers, a major Japanese invasion fleet today withdrew from the vicinity of Midway island.

(By United Press)

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii—At least eight and probably more warships and transports of a powerful Japanese invasion fleet have been damaged in the Pacific where the enemy is withdrawing under relentless attack of American naval and air forces.

A spokesman for Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's Pacific fleet headquarters here revealed the total of at least eight enemy ships damaged—and perhaps any number up to 16 or 20—as the battered Japanese fleet fled from its humiliating and possibly disastrous defeat near Midway island.

Admiral Nimitz, in an earlier communique, had said: "As more reports come in it appears that the enemy's damage was very heavy indeed, involving several ships in each of the carrier, battleship cruiser and transport classes."

To clear up the use of the word "several," whether it meant several in each individual class or several among the four categories, the spokesman said:

"The communique may be interpreted to mean that more than one ship was damaged in each class mentioned."

Thus, with the U. S. naval-air forces "continuing the battle," at least two Japanese battleships, two cruisers, two aircraft carriers and two transports have been damaged.

The disclosure that the major enemy fleet included transports made it evident that United States navy, air force, army and marine defense forces had repulsed a definite Japanese invasion attempt—on Midway or even a more vital objective.

One enemy aircraft carrier, first damaged by aerial bombs, was later struck by three United States submarine torpedoes, the fighting commander in chief of the Pacific fleet announced in one of the most dramatic communiques of the war.

SUCCESS: British Drive Ahead Against Rommel Army In Libya

BULLETIN

CAIRO—(U.P.)—A British counter-offensive in the Libyan desert southwest of Tobruk has "reached its first objectives" and a big battle between Axis and British tanks appears to be imminent, it was reported in frontline dispatches tonight.

(By International News Service)

BRITISH BATTLE HEADQUARTERS IN LIBYA—Armored British forces have achieved success in the initial phase of a strong counter-offensive against advanced Axis units west of Knightsbridge in the Libyan desert, the British high command announced today.

The imperial forces were stated to have reached their first objective advancing behind a terrific artillery barrage.

The British counter-drive to German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's eastward push gained momentum after capture of Tamar, Axis stronghold six miles west of Knightsbridge, 28 miles southwest of Tobruk.

"The initial phase of the British offensive westward from Knightsbridge was successful," the high command communique said.

"Fighting between armored forces continued throughout Friday."

Although the main British drive was launched in the northern area, imperial mechanized units, aircraft and artillery struck against German and Italian forces at both ends of the desert battle line.

Mobile units under command of Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie closed in on Axis troops holding out in the scorched "devil's cauldron" area west of Knightsbridge while other imperial tank units moved down to challenge German Field Marshal Rommel's attempt to encircle the Bir Hacheim garrison.

An overwhelming artillery barrage was directed by the British against the Axis salient guarding

DRUBBING: 300 RAF Planes Hit Ruhr In Renewed Bombing

(By International News Service)

LONDON—The industrial Ruhr valley of German was handed another drubbing during the night by RAF bombers, the air ministry announced today.

The attack was carried out by a strong force, the communique said.

Unofficial estimates placed the number of planes participating in the Ruhr bombing at over 200 and possibly as high as 300.

The British lost 13 planes.

Residents of the English coast reported hearing heavy explosions in the general direction of northern France during the night. This indicated that the occupied area had been bombed during the operations.

Following up the night attacks squadrons of RAF fighter planes roared across the channel early today to resume the daylight raids on the German-held European coast.

Heavy offensives were conducted throughout yesterday and on into the evening against the occupied coast. Calais and Dunkirk were attacked by American-made Boston bombers in the morning. Nazi-held bases at Le Havre and

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

As Uncle Sam reaches the half-year mark of his participation in the "war for survival" he has the satisfaction of knowing that he and his Allies are on their way to a victory from which they needn't be diverted except by their own shortcomings.

Such an optimistic outlook probably will evoke protests from those who feel that we shall win ultimately but believe the general public should be led to view the situation with utmost seriousness. Their idea is that the public will work harder if it believes we are getting a beating.

Maybe so, but we feel the man in the street thinks soundly enough and the best results are obtained by giving him the facts, and one fact is that we are getting ahead with our job of beating the Axis.

That doesn't mean we're out of the woods and romping home to victory. On the contrary we are on the verge of the bloodiest fighting in the whole war. We are about to measure arms with Hitler in a decisive battle which may open any day.

There are frightful dangers yet to be surmounted, and if we don't intensify our effort greatly — if we slacken the least bit—we may be beaten. But we definitely can win if we go all-out.

Uncle Sam's greatest individual achievement lies in production—in starting from scratch and in six months making such great strides that on May 19 Donald Nelson, WPB chairman, was able to announce that the United States war production was "greater than the Axis' in every category." That isn't to say we have caught up with the Axis nations, because they are profiting by years of intensive effort. It does mean that we are set to overtake them—if we strain every nerve.

That is of vast importance because this is a war of resources, of which production and transportation are an integral part.

Failure of the man at home to produce could wreck our war effort just as quickly as could a revolt of the soldiery. So upon the extent of our production depends the length of this war—and a very long conflict will be disastrous even if we "win."

With good reason we have prideful faith in both the worker and the soldier. Hitler declared that America couldn't increase her production in time to save the Allies. But we are on the way to perform just that feat. Washington officials in close touch with production say the war might be brought to a turning point this year, although victory couldn't be expected nearly so soon.

America's fighting-men now are in all theaters, and Lieut. General Brehon Sovervell, U. S. Army supply chief, says "We can fully equip any troops we can send abroad." Our tanks—so vital in modern mechanized warfare—are working for all our Allies, from Australia to the smoking sands of the Libyan desert and the lonely steppes of Russia. We surpassed Nazi tank production months ago.

Our warplanes are battling in all zones. The account they are giving need not be repeated. Under Secretary of War Patterson says the United States will produce more than 50,000 planes this year—the mark for which President Roosevelt called

One of the great set-backs has been the Axis ship sinkings, but last month we turned out 58 big ships. And by September, experts say, we will be launching three a day and by January or February four a day.

Thus, taking things on the whole, as we enter our second semester we can go in with heads up.

COMPROMISE ON $46 ARMY, NAVY PAY FAVORED

Conferees Reported Planning Raise Effective as Of June 1.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A dual compromise on the pay increase and allotment bills for the nation's soldier's and sailors appeared to be growing in strength today.

Conferees on the Army-Navy pay increase bill, in a new agreement on a $46 compromise base pay were feeling out house members on the question. The senate proposed $42, the house $50 a month. The agreement was reported as making the pay boost retroactive to June 1.

"A good many members said they felt they would be inclined to go along with a compromise," one member of the house military affairs committee disclosed.

Despite the compromise agreement, Sen. LaFollette (P) Wis., said he will continue his fight for the $50 monthly minimum. He stated:

"I think these men are entitled to a base pay of $50 a month and I'll put up the best fight I know how to see that they get it."

At the same time, Rep. Thomason, (D) Tex., acting in the absence of Chairman May (D) Ky., said he had called a military affairs committee meeting for Monday morning to consider the allowance and allotment bill passed by the senate Thursday.

Rep. Andrews, (R) N. Y., minority member of the committee said the military affairs group might have amendments for the house allowance-allotment bill before it reaches the floor as scheduled Monday.

The senate bill would give greater support to enlisted men's dependents than that up in the house—reflecting a difference of $10 a month in cases involving only a wife.

A dependent wife under the senate bill would get $50—$28 from the government and $22 from her husband's pay. The house bill as now written would give her $40, divided equally between the government and the serviceman. Both provide $10 from the government for each child.

Of principal interest to the house committee, Thomason said, was that portion of the senate bill providing for a system of draft classification based on dependency regardless of financial status.

"We felt the selective service administration should have come down and given us some expression on that," Thomason declared. "The house committee had no hearings on the draft feature."

21 VICTIMS RECOVERED AT ARMS PLANT

Army Asserts Damage Will Be Repaired Possibly Within Thirty Days.

ELWOOD, Ill.—The death toll was put at fifty-one today as army authorities moved with wartime swiftness to repair, possibly within thirty days, the damage left by the biggest munitions plant explosion since America's entry into this war.

Only twenty-one bodies had been recovered early today, but army officers announced they had abandoned hope that any of thirty men listed as "dead or missing" would be found in the wreckage alive. The blast occurred at 2:40 a. m. yesterday.

The startling estimate that the damage may be wiped out within thirty days was made by Lieut. Col. Don M. Hoffman, superintendent of the government ordnance plant, which is located near Elwood and south of Joliet.

"One building on one of four main loading lines was destroyed," said Lieut. Col. Hoffman. "It will be replaced probably within thirty days.

"The rest of the plant will be in continuous production. I estimate that our output will be down for the present not more than 15 to 20 per cent.

"Eight feeder lines, turning out explosives and other munitions for shipment to the armed forces, are undamaged and will be kept in continuous operation."

A board of inquiry is en route from Washington to investigate the cause of the blast, and their investigation will include the possibility of sabotage, Lieut. Col. Hoffman said.

No evidence of sabotage has been uncovered, he added. The huge plant is patrolled by a detail of 600 guards, and every conceivable measure is taken both to avoid accidents and to prevent sabotage, the superintendent stated.

The blast was felt as much as 100 miles away and was at first mistaken for an earthquake in Chicago. There were sixty-eight men in the 75 by 300 foot building where the explosion occurred, and today's list indicated few of them had escaped alive.

Besides those in the building itself, many were injured by flying debris thrown about by the blast. Forty-one were officially listed as injured, and five of these were said to be in critical condition.

KEEP CONTROL OVER IATSE

Remnants of Browne-Bioff Machine Defeat Attempt At 'Housecleaning.'

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—The union George Browne and William (Willie) Bioff used in the extortion of thousands of dollars from motion picture companies will remain under the domination of the remnants of the Browne-Bioff administration for two more years.

A slate of administration candidates led by International President Richard F. Walsh of Brooklyn, N. Y., was swept back into office yesterday by a large majority at the closing session of the 36th convention of the International Alliance of Theatrical State Employes.

A rump attempt to oust Walsh and other members of the present official family on the ground they were cognizant of "the selling out of the IATSE membership and the systematic looting of the IATSE treasury" under the Browne régime failed in the balloting.

Vincent Jacobi of New York and three other candidates for union offices who were openly seeking "a general housecleaning" were defeated by substantial margins

Jacobi ran a poor third in the three-candidate presidential race. Walsh received 644 votes and William T. Bennett of Washington, D. C., running independently of both the Jacobi and Walsh factions, received 296 votes Jacobi got 33 votes.

Browne and Bioff were given federal prison terms seven months ago after being convicted of employing the IATSE in the extortion of $550,000 from four motion picture companies.

OPA PLANS SUGAR ALLOTMENT FOR BOTH EARLY, LATE CROPS

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio agents of the Office of Price Administration were busy today straightening out troublesome kinks in sugar rationing—and they had a cheerful word for housewives, worried about canning peaches and other late fruit crops.

Field Representative K. P. Ruth of the OPA food rationing branch pointed out that those who receive a canning allotment for strawberries or cherries now will also, in most cases, be able to get another allotment for later crops.

The regulations, he said, are that there can be not more than four quarts of finished canned fruit for each member of the family, and one pound per year per person of preserves, jams, jellies or butters.

It's up to the local board, he said, how much of the sugar will be released now. The OPA wants to spread the use of canning sugar throughout the canning season, and local distribution will depend on local canning habits.

Rural areas do more home canning, will get more sugar for canning. Sections of the state which can particular crops will get allotments keyed to the season for those crops, Ruth indicated.

It's all worked out to spread the transportation load, another goal of the rationing system.

The OPA also is stepping in to adjust weekly supplies of sugar released to retail stores. Complaints have come from all parts of the state that allotments were insufficient to meet even rationed purchases.

The OPA has worked out a method to ease these shortages in individual stores. Original allotments were based on stocks the store had in November, 1941. In many cases, stores happened to have small supplies on hand that month, less than their normal month's supply.

So the OPA has adjusted its regulations so the retailer may have his weekly allotment based on the entire year 1941, instead of one low month.

FIRM AGREES

Lumbermens Tells Washington It'll Act as Agent.

The Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company has volunteered to act as a fiduciary agent for the War Damage corporation in writing policies of protection against enemy attack, officials of Lumbermens announced today.

This announcement in Mansfield followed the statement in Washington by Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, that arrangements had been worked out with the fire insurance industry for the companies to serve as fiduciary agents.

It will be necessary for everyone who wants protection against enemy attacks to make his application as soon as the necessary blanks are available, because the blanket protection now in force will expire June 30, Secretary Jones pointed out.

A majority of the firms writing fire insurance will participate, Secretary Jones said. Rates established for this insurance include a five-cent per $100 rate on growing crops, and a 10-cent per $100 rate on farm buildings and dwellings, rural and urban including contents.

Nurses Like Life In Open, But Not Rice and Trousers

Nurses with the United States army forces in New Caledonia—among them Miss Harriet McClelland of Fredericktown — agree that life in the open is fine but concede regular army trousers and shirt don't heighten their glamour.

According to the Associated Press the "soldiers in white" set up a hospital in a woods near Noumea and found that swimming, hikes, deer hunting and general outdoor life—their only recreation—were highly enjoyable.

They wear regular army gear because their own uniforms are n't adequate protection against mosquitoes.

They prepare their own food but Miss McClelland said:

"I've been practicing and trying but I just can't get myself to like rice. If the Japs come and it looks like we would be captured, I'm going to the hills and live with some friendly natives."

The topics for June are: What does the Bible teach about our full dependence on the Holy Spirit for spiritual efficiency? What provision does Christ make to lead His disciples in habitual spiritual victory? The place of prayer in Christian living and service and under what conditions is prayer answered? U. S. AIR, NAVAL FORCES SMASH MANY JAP SHIPS

Reciting the damage to the enemy fleet, he continued:

"This damage is far out of proportion to that which we received.

"While it is too early to claim a major Japanese disaster it may be conservatively stated that United States control remains firm in the Midway area.

"The enemy appears to be withdrawing but we are continuing the battle."

There was as yet no official indication of the destination or mission of the Japanese fleet which the United States war forces, working in perfect unison, had repulsed.

There remained a possibility that both the Midway attack Thursday and the Dutch Harbor attack Wednesday were diversions to screen a major attack on Hawaii or even the United States-Canadian coast. If so, the scheme had failed.

Nimitz's communique plainly indicated that the attack had been beaten off and probably definitely broken.

Ordered to Hawaii at the darkest hour of the war after the enemy sneak attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, Nimitz praised with warmth the fighting men of the United States forces who had won this great success.

"The brunt of the defense to date has fallen upon our aviation personnel, in which the army, navy and marine corps were all represented," he said.

"They added another shining page to their record of achievements.

"On every occasion when we have met the enemy, our officers and men have been superlative in their offensive spirit and their complete lack of fear.

"Our country can feel secure with personnel such as this."

There was no indication from Nimitz's communique whether the United States naval forces expected a new and possibly decisive battle with the Japanese fleet, and the question was left open whether the Japanese might essay another attack.

But there seemed no possible doubt that the enemy had suffered a damaging, important repulse.

Observers here believed that the United States might now have an opportunity of seriously crippling Japanese naval strength, to the extent even of marking a turning point in the Pacific war, in developments in the Midway zone.

Official announcement first that Japanese battleships, apparently several cruisers and certainly a fleet of troop transports were involved in the action indicated that the Japanese had concentrated a big force.

It was believed here that undoubtedly big United States bombers, as well as smaller planes based on Midway, had struck smashing blows at the Japanese fleet.

Belief was growing that both the Midway and Dutch Harbor attacks might have been designed as preparation for an attempt to capture Hawaii, which is vital to the defense of the United States Pacific coast and to operations of the United States-Australia supply line.

West Coast Renews Raid Precautions

SAN FRANCISCO— (INS) —Additional precautionary measures were rushed to completion along the entire Pacific coast today as thousands of civilian defense workers remained under emergency orders, ready for instant action in event of a possible attack.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—but of course YOU will, it's only "the other fellow" who should be warned.

Hitler's dove of peace, which was rumored as ready for flight a few weeks ago, has apparently been pigeon-holed for awhile.

Except for an occasional bark by Senator Byrd, the office of "watchdog of the treasury" seems to have been vacated for duration of the New Deal.

Air Action Opens Second Front

SWIFTLY increasing air power of the United Nations is being used with telling effect in western Europe just now and there is reason to believe that this battering force will gain impetus through the summer.

Neutrals, and nations that aligned themselves on the Axis side because there was no other course open to them, are beginning to realize that Hitler will eventually lose and that independence will be restored to Nazi-ridden countries.

This week's heavy bombings of German cities cannot fail to become known to the people of that country, however remote they may be from the scene, and will be recognized as a far cry from Hitler's promise of quick victory and his assurance that their homeland was safe from such raids.

They will also learn of Great Britain's assertion that this is only the beginning, and that German cities will be destroyed, "one after another," until the peril of Hitlerism has been removed from the world.

Germany is now in a position similar to that of the British Isles in the late summer of 1940, when English cities were at the mercy of Nazi bombers. Now it is the United Nations that have gained supremacy in the air and are in position to choose the point of attack and supply whatever force is deemed necessary, as was demonstrated in the attacks on Cologne and Essen this week.

Now, also, the United Nations are in position to gain fighting strength steadily and rapidly while Germany's energies and resources have passed their peak and will continue to dwindle as further destructive blows are struck at productive centers.

The war is not over—far from it—but the trend toward final victory is daily becoming more evident, and it needs only the all-out effort of which the United States is capable, to quicken the accomplishment.

Home Canning Made Difficult

UNLESS there is some simplification of procedure by which sugar may be secured for home canning it is quite likely that this thrifty practice will be abandoned by many housewives this summer—with resultant waste of much fruit.

In a probable majority of homes where some canning is customarily done it is usually a toss-up as to whether the accomplishment is worth the effort, and if there's to be a lot of red tape connected with getting the necessary sugar—with threat of fine and jail sentence for wrong answers—a "what's the use" attitude is understandable.

Nor has it been made clear to the public that there is an actual or prospective shortage of sugar sufficient to justify drastic domestic rationing while an apparently limitless supply flows into candy-making and other commercial uses, and wholesale and refinery surpluses exceed their storage facilities.

Governmental action in sugar rationing seems more bureaucratic than democratic.

State Employes Immune

DECISION by the state supreme court that salaries of state employes may not be garnisheed, will be heartening to the "dead-beats," if any, on the state payroll, although wartime nation-wide credit policies may partially offset the advantage of being able to buy merchandise and contract debts free from the annoyance of at least one effective collection process.

The habit of allowing charge accounts to run interminably is probably no more prevalent among public employes than among persons in other activities, but some glaring instances point to the unfairness of special grants of immunity.

If there is a weakness in Ohio law in this respect, as appears indicated by the supreme court decision, it should be corrected.

Workers Also Need Balanced Diet

A HARVARD ECONOMIST, John D. Black, says British industry while doing well, would do considerably better if it had a better balanced diet. British production, he thinks, would rise 20 per cent if the workmen were fed as well as American soldiers and sailors.

But large numbers of our own war workers do not have such ample, scientific feeding. Prof. Black tells of a factory he knows about where the food is certainly handled in a strange way, for these scientific times. Several hundred workers come to the plant at 7 a. m. without breakfast, and have coffee and doughnuts before starting work. Then at 10 they have coffee and pie. When lunch-time comes, they eat a cold lunch with beer or a cold soft drink. Their one real meal a day comes when they get home.

Such a diet doesn't promote industrial efficiency, remarks Prof. Black, and is no more proper for workmen than for an armed force. It may be literally true that victory in this war will go to the best-fed.

Thomas Paine's Warning Recalled

THOMAS PAINE has lately come into his own. Before the Revolution he was an ardent advocate of American independence, and he is thought to have won over George Washington and Benjamin Franklin to the cause. What service to his country could be greater than that?

The words with which he roused his countrymen in 1776 have been drawn on by President Roosevelt in his Washington's Birthday speech. How timely they are, is shown by the following, which seem meant for the Nazis today:

> "It is the madness of folly to expect mercy from those who have refused to do justice; and even mercy, where conquest is the object, is only a trick of war. The cunning of the fox is as murderous as the violence of the wolf, and we ought to guard equally against both."

The years 1776 and 1942 alike represent struggles for liberty. This generation may well draw inspiration from the watchwords of the earlier victory.

THE OLD POLITICAL DETECTOR

May Use Silver for Plumbing

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

AMERICAN industry is embarking upon the doubtful experiment of borrowing 50-odd thousand of tons of silver from the United States treasury, to substitute for copper, as the metal required to equip our factories, of many sorts, with tubes, pipes and miscellaneous gadgets necessary to their productive operation.

Silver's good stuff for the purpose, but manufacturers object to buying it, for their plumbing, because it's so expensive.

Copper's a lot cheaper, but it's in such demand for war utility, which silver's unserviceable for, that industrialists simply can't get enough of it. Silver's lying around, though, in treasury vaults, literally spoiling, in tens of thousands of tons. Industrialists, however, won't buy it, as a copper substitute; it costs so much more.

O. K. Why shouldn't the government loan it to 'em, however?

Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, favors the scheme. Boss Jesse Jones of the Defense Plant corporation indorses it. War Production Board Director Donald Nelson sponsors it.

All they want congress to do is to agree, and silver state lawmakers, such as Senator Patrick McCarran of Nevada, approve the plan.

Silver a Security.

The difficulty is that our governmentalized silver is a security. We have paper money (silver certificates) outstanding against it. Assume that you have a piece of paper, representing one dollar, and you can't realize that amount on it in metal. That's a ridiculous supposition, of course. Still, suppose such a case, in the present disorganized state of the world.

Surmise that you go into treasury headquarters and say, "Here's a 1-bone certificate. Gimme 1-bone in cash."

The treasury's bound in honor and credit to do it.

Now, the imaginary drawback is that the treasury mayn't be able to do it up to the n'th degree.

It's bought tons more of silver than it needs to meet its earlier book obligations. But, in the meantime, it's sucked 'em up so fast that it hasn't got a margin any more. It's asking for CREDIT.

Oh, well, gosh!—it's credit is good.

Nevertheless, it isn't immediate. It WAS previously. It is yet.

The treasury's had tons more than was required to meets its obligations.

But now it won't have technically enough of it for industrial requirements to foot the bill—not enough silver to meet demands.

The dope'll be that a guy with silver certificates won't be able to get 'em cashed.

What'll he do commercially?

Why, he'll butt in on some productive industry, remarking:

"You fellows' plant is silver. It belongs to us under foreclosure—'cause I own the certificates."

And the certificates are the real thing.

The treasury department'll have agreed to it in advance.

Plumbing in Jeopardy.

A factory'll be in a nice fix (won't it?) to have all its pipes and things conscripted by silver certificate holders—not only for now, but maybe forever.

OR—if the certificate holders foreclose in a hurry!

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's game is to make the silver and copper buyers divide themselves up reasonably.

He can get away with silver if the copperites will be moderate.

If not, your sanitary domestic plumbing is liable to be levied on by some federal official, in your own household, by one functionary or another, because it's too silvery rather than exclusively coppery.

To date aluminum has taken copper's place considerably.

Now though, aluminum's getting skimpy.

Listen World!

New Feeling

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S a new feeling among us. We have always been a friendly people, we Americans; but the speed of life has been so swift of late that we have somehow drifted apart. We smile casually when we meet, then pass on with a hurried nod. We telephone a brief message, write a scanty note, then rush back to our jobs. But something new has stirred in our hearts lately, a new comprehension of the other fellow's value and our concern for him.

I'm quoting again from Blake Clark's book, "Remember Pearl Harbor." It's quite a ghastly book and you'd better not tackle it unless you feel thoroughly fit. The youngsters at Pearl Harbor—those 3000 that died—had to tackle it whether they liked it or not. And the story of those few hours has changed our nation's attitude.

"Numbers of young seamen had lost arms or legs, hundreds were burned. The spirit of these boys was unbelievable. The most impressive fact about the hospital, filled with wounded, many suffering unto death, was the silence. No confusion, unnecessary clamor, no crying out. You never heard screams—instead, 'Watch that leg, please, ma'am. It's broken in two places.'

"In an hour boys had become men, and men heroes. The medical officer walked down a row of wounded to select the ones to receive immediate treatment. His trained eye at once saw the worst case. Burned skin was dripping off a young boy's entire upper body.

"'Take care of my buddy, here, Doc,' the boy said. 'He's hurt lots worse than I am'

"That sentence was spoken more often than any other throughout the day—'Take care of my buddy.'"

"Take care of my buddy." The phrase was born in Pearl Harbor but it's spreading from the Golden Gate to Cape Cod. We're beginning to realize that our buddy isn't "just another guy." He's our pardner in the greatest struggle the world has ever seen . . . he's our comfort in the hardest hours the world has ever faced.

I was sick lately, had five months of it. On the first day I left for a short ride my neighbors gathered around me. I hardly knew those neighbors. I have had little time to know them, I write so constantly. But there in those few minutes I knew them as I had never known them before. They were busy women too, working in many capacities for the defense. But for a little space of time all thought of our work was put aside. They showed me their hearts. They gave me strength and courage to go on—and fight.

Remember that dying boy's words. "Take care of my buddy, Doc. He's hurt lots worse than I am."

"Take care of my buddy." A man died once on the cross saying that. You can at least give a smile, a handclasp, or send a letter.

On June 6, 1755, Nathan Hale, the American patriot was born. A captain in Washington's army at the age of twenty-one, Hale volunteered to invade the enemy's lines and obtain information as to their strength. Returning to Washington's camp he was captured and executed next day, Sept. 22, 1776. Undaunted to the last, with his head high, he declared, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Congressmen At Work.

It seems as though the senators and representatives are in a race with one another to see who can ignore the real issues by the widest margin in this discussion of nation-wide gasoline rationing.

Speaker Rayburn took the lead, we thought, with his reasoning as to why rationing is unnecessary:

"The people," said Rayburn, "will ration themselves because they know that when their tires are worn out they won't get any more for quite a while."

But Senator LaFollette, in our opinion, is able to close his eyes even more tightly to realities. Screaming in protest against the very thought of rationing, he made the profound observation that such a measure would "ruin the tourist trade."—Akron Beacon Journal.

Japan's Attack on Dutch Harbor Intensifies West Coast Defense

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THAT the Japanese would have to strike at some American territory as a face-saving gesture in reply to the bombing of Tokyo was taken for granted.

So the visit of four bombers and 15 fighters to Dutch Harbor, U. S. naval base 1,000 miles west of the Alaska mainland in the Aleutian chain, was not entirely a surprise.

The bombers came over bleak, misty, treeless Unalaska Island at 6 a. m., stayed but 15 minutes. They fired some warehouses, caused some casualties, but the navy said no serious damage resulted.

But then, in what might have been a surprise, they came visiting again, six hours later.

Indications were that the raids had been supported by an aircraft carrier. They opened a new battle zone, marked the first time enemy bombs have been dropped on the North American continent.

Some American observers wondered if the raids were the opening phase of an organized grand assault on the northwestern stepping stones to Canada and the U. S. from Asia. All along the American coast from Alaska to the Panama canal, defense precautions were intensified. The leaves and passes of all soldiers and sailors in the Panama Canal Zone were cancelled.

The weather over the Aleutians, which is nasty for flying during most of the year, is favorable now and will continue to be for another month. Fogs will return in late July.

After the War.

Post-war problems, whether or not current developments indicate they must soon be faced, keep popping up in the news.

At Arlington Cemetery, Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, recalled the United States' refusal to join the League of Nations after the World war, said "unenlightened selfishness" was the reason for that decision.

After this war, said Welles, the United Nations should establish "an international police power" to maintain peace. The voices of those in the fighting lines and in the war factories, he said, would "demand that the United Nations become the nucleus of a world organization . . . to determine the final terms of a just, an honest and a durable peace . . ."

From England came the news that already the British are taking up post-war problems with the Dominions, the United States, Soviet Russia and other United Nations, in discussions which are at "a confidential stage."

At Home

Browder, Biddle, Bridges.

Capitol Hill was confused. A few weeks before, President Roosevelt had freed Earl Browder, former general secretary of the Communist party, who was serving a jail sentence for passport fraud. FDR had said he was acting in the interest of "national unity," and observers assumed he was making a friendly gesture toward the Soviet Union.

But now what were lawmakers to believe? FDR's Attorney General Biddle had just ordered the immediate deportation of Harry Bridges, West Coast CIO leader, on the grounds that he was a Communist. In doing so Biddle had reversed the Board of Immigration Appeals. While several congressmen applauded the move against Bridges others, such as Senator Clark, didn't think the administration was being very consistent.

Though Biddle called for Bridges' "immediate deportation" to his native Australia both Biddle and Bridges knew no such move was likely. Biddle, in fact, suggested the whole matter be reviewed eventually by the Supreme Court.

Unpleasant Reminder.

New York's World Fair has been over almost two years but more than memories linger on. For instance, the Japanese Pavilion still stands. Residents of nearby Flushing were so annoyed at having the building "stare back at them unpleasantly" that they notified New York's park commissioner that they would tear down the building themselves if it wasn't down by June 12.

The commissioner told the "super-heated" residents to cool down, that the pavilion was now "only a hollow shell" and was being torn down as fast as manpower and equipment was available.

Signs of the Times.

A filling station in Durham, N. C., hung up a sign: "Out of Gas."

Noting that local concerns had changed from trucks to horses and wagons, the owners stocked up with hay, did a brisk business. A few hours later they hung up a new sign: "Out of Hay."

Abroad

Lambasting In Libya.

It was to be a surprise thrust, a sneak blow at vital Tobruk.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel lined up his three armored and two motorized divisions, started them out in the desert night. They moved south and east from the Nazi outposts, passed south of Bir Hacheim, lower end of the British minefields and defense line in front of Tobruk.

Then the long columns turned north behind the 50-mile protective line. They headed for British-held Tobruk, key to any Nazi advance toward Egypt and the Suez—or Russia's Caucasus—because it controls the vital Libyan supply roads.

That's when the Tommies let loose—and the surprise was Rommel's.

Gen Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander in chief of the British Middle East forces, who explained that "we had foreseen the attack and were ready for it," had reason to be proud of the results, even should Rommel extricate what was left of his five divisions.

The British had suffered heavy losses, too. But their losses were still on British-controlled battlefields.

Audacious Aussie.

Things "Down Under" must be looking up.

On May 20, shortly after the battle of the Coral sea, Australian Prime Minister John Curtin told his countrymen:

"You have been told that the next few weeks are fraught with grave possibilities. I repeat that warning in the sternest terms."

Just two weeks later Curtin had this to say:

"The thrusts the enemy made at our soil were repulsed. The enemy had come with bombing planes and inflicted damage but was driven off with losses. The enemy had sought to come here with immense naval strength to establish a spearhead but he found his most southerly venture beyond his capacity to execute . . .

"I defy the enemy to land large forces in Australia."

Who Killed Heydrich?

Reinhard Heydrich, cobra-eyed, hatched-faced "Protector of Bohemia and Moravia and No. 2 in the Gestapo, was traveling in his well-armored car near Prague when an assailant lobbed a bomb into the vehicle. The car swerved off the side of the road. Another assailant pumped bullets into the occupants.

"Der Henker" (The Hangman) Heydrich was horribly injured, died a week later. Official Berlin was swept with consternation.

Who waylaid "Der Henker"? The first supposition was that daring Czech patriots had done the trick. Germans were soon hinting, however, that maybe foreign parachutists had done it. And there were whispers in European cities that his enemies within the Nazi party had tried to bump him off.

Whoever did it, the Czechs were paying the price. Each day the Gestapo shot a dozen or more tight-lipped Czechs. The most serious charges brought against them was that they had either harbored agents hostile to the Germans or had publicly expressed approval of the Heydrich shooting.

Cologne Blasted.

Britons decided last week-end to give Cologne the distinction of receiving the most devastating air pounding in history. Humming "we're off to bomb the Jerries" 6,000 RAF flyers left scores of British air fields, converged on the city. For an hour and a half they unloaded 6,000,000 pounds of explosives on the city from their thousand-odd bombers. Soon three-fourths of Cologne was flaming furiously.

Germans were given even more grounds for dismay two nights later when the RAF hauled off with another 1,000 bombers and smacked another choice target nearby: Essen, home of the colossal Krupp munitions works. The second raid was enough to convince Germans that the Britons weren't kidding when they said that soon the Allies would be sending 1,000 bombers over Germany nightly.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The bottom of men's pants on Broadway come higher and higher, and the coats go longer and longer. The more extreme stylists now have their coats hanging almost to their knees. I saw Tommy Dorsey at his opening the other night in a new grey suit, and his coat was so long that if he had buckled on a sword he would have looked like a Confederate general.

Apparently J. Edgar Hoover doesn't believe there can be any such thing as a perfect crime. He was asked by Max Marcin, who writes a "Perfect Crime" broadcast for radio, if he had ever heard of one. To which Hoover replied, "If it was a perfect crime, how could I ever hear of it?"

PHIL COOPER is something of a philosopher as well as the operator of a cleaning shop near Broadway. Much of his trade is from actors. "I can usually tell what part a man plays by the stains on his vest," says Phil, "but in Cafe Crown they had me fooled. I thought for awhile they were using my old friend Sam Jaffe as a short order cook."

ABOUT four o'clock the other afternoon I went over into the RCA building for a talk with Peter Siskind, of the American Spirits Co. It was a dreary day. The sky was overcast, and the people, as they appeared far beneath on the sidewalks, seemed in no disposition to linger. Pete said, "How would you like to jump from here?" I looked down at the sidewalk and wondered how it felt to hurtle through the air that far. Twenty minutes later a young woman, on the 65th floor of the same building, climbed out on the rail, and jumped. In her purse was found a brief note of regret. It was an hour and a half before the body was identified.

HERE'S a piece of dialog that gets applause. . . . It's from "The Wife Takes a Flier," with Allyn Joslyn, who plays a Nazi major, and Franchot Tone, a critic.

Joslyn: "Der Fuehrer never smokes."

Tone: "Don't worry. He will some day."

As for "Tortilla Flat," the verdict remains the same but there have been no casualties to date. This Steinbeck yarn was a novel. It later was brought to the stage. After the critics panned it, a fine fist fight broke out in a Broadway restaurant one night between one of the critics and Jack Kirkland, who dramatized it for the stage. There were hard words passed, and hard blows. . . . Now, "Tortilla Flat" has reached the screen. The film critics' reaction seems to be that it was hardly worth the effort. . . . So far, not a single film critic has been punched in the nose.

Dr. Louis L. Mann, prominent rabbi, points to a current evil in addressing the University of Illinois graduating class: "Bigotry, fanaticism, racial hatred and national animosity are now being used as political weapons."

In Short

Voted: Abolition of the CCC, by the house committee on appropriations considering the labor department-federal security agency supply bill.

Signed: By President Manuel Avila Camacho, a declaration of war placing Mexico alongside 26 other United Nations at war against the Axis.

Convicted: Madeline Webb, Eli Shonbrun, her lover, and John Cullen, for the suffocation murder of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich. The jury recommended mercy in Miss Webb's case only.

Released: M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, from Pennsylvania's Northeastern Federal penitentiary, because of bad health. He had served 23 months of a three-year sentence in the largest individual income tax case on record.

Killed: Over the Memorial day week-end, 233 persons, 218 less than the 1941 toll.

HOROSCOPE

FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 7

Sunday's horoscope holds promise of unusual adventures, with much stability and solid effort applied to accumulating material possessions, reward for labor, industry and duties well performed. While increase of lands, property and probable inheritance or gifts are favored, with preferment from public or community organizations, yet there are hazards of loss or fraud through carelessness.

Those whose birthday it is may look for surprising gains either through the ordinary business ventures, through inheritance, gifts, or the increase of value in investments or real possessions. Labor, industry and merit should meet recognition and reward.

A child born on this day should have exceptional talents sustained by sound and practical principles. It will be adaptable to many professions or industries.

FOR MONDAY, JUNE 8

Monday's astrological forecast is for a moderate degree of activity and good fortune, with the prospect of promotion, favors, honors and preferment at the hands of superiors, employers, relatives or those holding influential positions. Travel, writings, publicity and agencies assist.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of satisfactory progress and activity, especially in connection with travel, writings, publications or agencies. Also those in position and influence are willing to assist.

Talk on Herbs Given for Club Members Friday

When the Mansfield Garden club met Friday at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Nail, 730 Woodhill road, members enjoyed the beautiful rose garden and the program presented by Mrs. A. R. Boethelt. Associate hostess was Mrs. Fred Herring. Mrs. Nail's mother, Mrs. J. A. MacLean of Chicago, Ill., was a guest.

Subject of Mrs. Boethelt's interesting and timely talk was "Herbs and Spice and Everything Nice." She stated that the subject of herbs is such a fragrant and fascinating one, so old and surrounded by legend and simple usage alike, that it is difficult to know where to begin. There are tried and genuine ways of using more easily obtained herbs to give health, good appetite and pleasure.

Mrs. Boethelt explained that most herbs are easy to grow. As a whole, they like a fairly poor, well drained and gravelly soil and plenty of sunlight. They can easily be grown from seeds. Exceptions are sage and tarragon. Herbs are useful and pleasant additions to the garden. The speaker listed the different kinds of herbs: the kind grown for cooking, for fragrance and for beauty of foliage. Mrs. Boethelt was attired in a Pilgrim costume for her talk.

Next meeting will be held June 19 at the home of Mrs. Charles Jelliff, Carpenter road. Mrs. Robert Gibson will be associate hostess.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Jack's face was suddenly brick red at my question, and if he had been almost any other man, I would have said it was a guilty flush dyeing his cheeks.

"Ruth Hayes and her native woman attendant were with me," he said. "Her brother wanted them to have my protection until we reached the seaport."

"Ah-h!" I breathed, and he started as if the word had been a stiletto thrust.

"You mean you think Ruth—" he stammered.

"Who else had the opportunity, I countered, "unless — her brother?"

"No, No!" he said vehemently. "I'll stake my life on him. As for her—it seems unbelieveable. It is hard enough to believe that my friend's sister could be so abysmally base as to send that lying letter to Katherine—"

"She may have felt," I said lightly, "that anything was fair in love and war."

He glared at me. That is the only verb to describe his look.

"Love!" His voice crackled with contempt. "But stealing those cryptograms, and their turning up later in the hands of those gangsters—that must mean she is a spy."

"Of sorts," I agreed: "She may not be interested in anything else but ruining your work, yet—well, I'll quote you part of another old saying: "Hell hath no fury—'; finish it yourself."

His brick red flush deepened and convinced me without his saying so, that at some time in the past Ruth Hayes had offered herself to him, and was "a woman scorned."

"But I do not see how she could have gotten hold of them," he said after a little, deeply puzzled.

"You last looked at your file and locked it the night before you left camp?" I asked.

"And put it under my pillow," he answered.

"Did you have anything to eat or drink from that moment until you breakfasted the next morning?"

"Nothing but some chocolate and little cakes which it was Ruth's custom to have served to us all every night, just before we went to bed. But I did not leave by room to get them. My native boy brought them to me."

Slept As If Drugged.

"Did you sleep soundly that night?" I asked next.

"Now that you mention it, I did," he said. "My boy had quite a time to rouse me the next morning. I was surprised, because I was so keyed up over the journey that I had expected to sleep lightly, if at all."

"Was your room securely locked?" I asked.

"It wasn't locked," he said. "You see, it wasn't a room but a tent. Anyone could have undone the flap and entered, only no one ever did."

"Ruth Hayes did that night," I said firmly, "after she had dosed your chocolate enough to make you sleep so soundly that you wouldn't know what was happening. She must have reached under your pillow, taken your file, examined it at her leisure, abstracted what she wanted, replaced everything as she found it, and then left your tent."

The deep flush had receded now, leaving him pallid to ghastliness.

"You must be right," he said. "It's the only possible answer. But I can't see the tie-up.

"How did she know which ones to take? For she did, uncannily. And how could she be connected with the man from whom your niece obtained the one you showed me? It's all simply incomprehensible to me."

"But it won't be to my father, after he has worked on it awhile," I told him comfortingly. "But now tell me this. I only brought you one of the three pages the gangsters had obtained. Will they be able to get valuable information from those other two pages?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOTICE THE LOW CARD

Playing or discarding a high card, when your partner knows you have several lower ones, virtually screams at the top of its voice for your partner to lead that suit under all normal circumstances. Use of a small card, which your partner can tell definitely is your lowest, may not be so spectacular, but is just as definite an indication to him that you wish a different suit led, especially if some previous bid, lead or play by you has directed his attention toward some other one suit. Bear this in mind when your partner gives you a low card and obey the injunction unless you have solid reasons for doing otherwise.

That weak bid of 1-Diamond by West was to interfere with the opponents, and was not particularly risky, as he had good distributional support for any suit his partner might bid. When West failed to keep his opponents out of game, and then led the spade 6 instead of a diamond, East should have been thinking about the possibility that his partner had a good spade suit, especially since the opponents did not bid it. But he did not think of that.

As soon as South won the opening lead with the spade Q, he finessed the club J, the K winning. On this trick, West discarded the diamond 6. Between his own hand and dummy, East could see the 5, 4, 3 and 2, and therefore should have known the 6 was West's lowest diamond. Consequently West must have been asking for a spade return. He, however, switched to a diamond, to the A, and the chance to beat the contract was gone. When the heart K later was lost to the A, East could have set the contract with a third spade lead if he had led the spades at his first chance. As it was, the show was over, South taking two tricks in spades, one in hearts, two in diamonds and four in clubs, a total of nine.

Your Week-End Lesson.

If you can see that the declarer is trying to build a double squeeze against yourself and your partner, what should you do at your first discarding opportunity in order to try to thwart him?

RAF GIVES RUHR BOMB DRUBBING

300 Planes Range Over Vital Industrial Valley In Continued Assault.

Ostend and enemy airdromes in Brittany also were blasted.

It was disclosed that twin-engined Whirlwind fighters, equipped with four cannon, participated in the Friday raids. This was the first instance in which planes of that type have been mentioned in action.

Soviets Say Attacks Open European Front

KUIBYSHEV, Russia—(AP)—The big-scale British attacks on the Ruhr and Rhineland this week mark the start of a huge scale British and American offensive on Germany which will open an actual western front, the leading article in the Moscow News said today.

The newspaper, published here, said the attacks presaged "big battles—not only aid battles in which the initiative undobutedly also will be held firmly by the Allies."

Germans Say 305 Killed At Cologne

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—(AP)—It was announced at noon today that 305 persons were killed in the recent heavy air raid on Cologne.

Other estimates of the casualties, based on unofficial advices leaking out of Germany, have ranged into thousands dead and wounded as a result of the first of the RAF's 1,000-plane operation last Saturday night.

Reds Blast Nazi Airdromes In North

MOSCOW—(INS)—Striking fast and furiously to protect convoy routes from America and England, the Red army air force has blasted German airdromes in the Murmansk area, a Soviet communique announced today. At least 40 German planes were destroyed on the ground in three raids, the communique reported.

While the communique gave no further details, it was assumed that the German bases were those from which Nazi bombers and torpedo planes have been launching attacks on Russia-bound convoys.

Italians Say Naples Raid Damage Light

ROME — (INS) — (By Official Italian Wireless)—The RAF raid on Naples last night "caused no serious damage," according to an Italian communique issued today.

The attack was carried out in successive waves. Some fires were extinguished, the high command said. One civilian was killed. The British flew as far as the province of Littoria, where parachute flares were dropped.

U. S. Loses Heavy Bomber Over Burma

NEW DELHI, India—(AP)—For the first time in two months of operations over Burma, during which they have done incalcuable damage to any Japanese offensive plans, the United States air froces in Burma have announced the loss of a heavy bomber in action.

A communique yesterday, reporting another smashing American air blow on the shipping and docks at Rangoon which feed and supply the invaders in Burma, concluded laconically:

"Twelve fighters attacked. Two certainly and one probably were destroyed. Heavy "ackack" was encountered. One of our own aircraft failed to return."

INDUSTRY TOLD PRIVATE AUTOS WON'T BE REQUISITIONED IN '42

By DAVID J. WILKIE
(Wide World Automotive Editor)

DETROIT — Governmental requisitioning of privately-owned passenger automobiles is not in prospect for the current year at least, according to private information reaching automotive industry authorities here.

The immobilization of from two to three million such vehicles through restrictions on excess tire ownership, on the other hand, is wholly within the possibilities of the coming six months. An order banning the ownership of more than five tires by any person or family would bring this about, it has been estimated, without imposing any great hardship on the families accustomed to the use of two or more vehicles.

One of the anomalies of the present situation, affecting the motoring public is that despite the lack of production, the relatively small stock of new cars available and the rationing program, there is no shortage of automobiles or automobile transportation at the moment.

Undoubtedly without the restrictions on new car sales and the threat of fuel rationing to save tires there would be a demand far in excess of the supply. It cannot be said, however, that there would be actual need in like volume.

Besides the approximately 400,000 unsold 1942 models produced prior to Feb. 10 there are many thousands of second hand vehicles in dealer's possession upon which there are no sales restrictions. Yet they are attracting fewer buyers than most trade experts expected when restrictions on new car assemblies first were proposed.

Most, if not all, of these vehicles may be expected to be absorbed before requisitioning of privately-owned cars becomes imminent, the industry experts assert.

While many of the automobile company executives last December predicted a serious shortage of passenger vehicles during 1942 most of them now agree that with careful use and the elimination of non-essential operation the cars now privately held plus those in dealers' hands can be made to last not only through 1943 but 1944 as well.

Another refreshing summer drink is the bamboo cocktail made by mixing a jigger of sherry wine, a jigger of dry vermouth, and two dashes of bitters. Add plenty of cracked ice, stir well, and strain into a cocktail glass. To catch a festive note, garnish with a green olive or small pickled onion.

Buell-Kraft Studio Seen as Mecca for City's Photography, Home-Movie Fans

Owner Bases Service on 22 Years Experience In Business.

Gathering-place for photography enthusiasts and home-movie fans is the Buell-Kraft studio, 48 West Third street, one of the most completely equipped photography shops in north central Ohio.

The studio is operated by Clarence A. Buell, who has been in the photography business for the past 22 years. Buell has operated the studio since 1936 when he purchased the old Kraft studio.

Buell has been interested in photography for more than 30 years. When but a boy, he became intrigued by the art and later found that his hobby was claiming more and more of his time until at last it became his business.

In 1920, he entered the commercial and industrial field, one which requires utmost skill because of the rigid specifications set up by business men or industrialists intending to use the pictures for catalogues or advertisements.

After 16 years as an expert in the commercial and industrial field, Buell decided to enter the wider field of general photography, maintaining however his contacts with his original work. He still retains most of the large industrial contracts in the city, making catalogue and special photographs for most of the city's largest manufacturers.

Purchased Old Studio.

Buell purchased the old Kraft studio from John Robertson in the fall of 1936 and immediately began trying out a lot of his own ideas in the photography field.

Buell had the first 16 millimeter home movie camera and projector in the city. He purchased it immediately after seeing one domonstrated.

"Maybe you think I was a fool," said Buell. "That machinery I bought then could be bought now by any amateur for almost one-third of the price but I wanted it and I enjoyed having it."

Buell has proven that his purchase was not foolish, however. Today, he is a master in the home movie field, maintains all the equipment necessary to establish and supply any home movie fan. Buell is extravagant with the advice he gives his customers. He supplies them with several items which they could not purchase within 50 miles of Mansfield otherwise and throws in a bushelful of good photographic advice with every article sold.

Buell now has two assistants as well as his daughter, Naomi Karchner, who has been trained to color the photographs turned out in his studio.

Miss Karchner has studied the art for years and does not merely tint the pictures as do most of the workers in the cheap studios or five-and-ten stores. She deftly paints the pictures with oil paints, giving them a lifelike appearance.

In addition to industrial and commercial, the Buell-Kraft studio specializes in Kodak and other film finishing and portraiture work. An up-to-date studio with modern lighting facilities is maintained for portrait or group pictures.

Most of Mansfield's families have had their pictures taken at the Buell-Kraft studio. Weddings, birthdays, graduations, anniversaries—any occasion may be preserved in memory by portraits taken at the studio.

Does All Own Work.

One thing that Buell emphasizes, whether it's about portraiture, photo-finishing, commercial or industrial work, all work is done within the studio with only the finest materials.

"Only by using quality material and trained workmen can you turn out quality work," says Buell.

In his career as a commercial photographer, Buell has been called upon to take many unusual photographs. Perhaps the most unusual was the interior of a huge furnace at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company.

"The inside of the furnace was like a huge subterranean cavern," said Buell. "Slag had been fused along with the brick interior to form one of the most unusual formations I have ever seen.

CATER TO PARTIES

Special facilities are available at the Health Kitchen, 30 East Third street, for the accommodation of private parties or dinners. The Health Kitchen serves a wide variety of foods and features the Cuban sandwich, a Southern delicacy served in leading restaurants in Florida and Cuba.

One of the best-equipped photography shops and studios in north-central Ohio is the Buell-Kraft Studio located at 48 West Third street. All departments of modern photography from portraiture to home-movies are represented and available at the studio. In the picture above, Clarence A. Buell, proprietor of the studio and veteran of 22 years of photography experience, shows a customer one of the news cameras available at the studio. All supplies for amateurs or professional photographers are sold at the studio.

Cites Shellac Need To Insure Quality Phonograph Discs

Mansfield music enthusiasts who may be worrying that priorities may cut off their supply of new phonograph records may relax. There isn't going to be any shortage.

Take it from Martha Ellen Wiesman, sales representative of the RCA Manufacturing company, makers of Victor and Bluebird records, who is visiting the new record department of Smart's Music store at 6 South Main street this week.

One thing is necessary though, according to Miss Wiesman. If music-lovers want to get the same quality they have been getting for the past years, they should make it a practice to trade in old records when they purchase new ones.

The reason for this is the shellac coating on the records. The government is using 70 per cent of the shellac supply for war production. Shellac, by the way, comes from India, and is pretty scarce right now.

Smart's will buy all of your old records at five cents a pound. The records will be taken to factories where they will be ground up, the shellac removed and used to coat new records.

There's no danger that music-lovers won't be able to obtain their favorite popular or classical records however. As a matter of fact, because of the lack of shellac, manufacturers are turning out only the best records these days and you can get them all at Smart's.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Mansfielders expecting to spend Sunday in the sports field will have to do it as participants instead of fans, unless they hop in their tire-rationed buggies and roam far afield.

Unless some one has been holding out on me with the news that a ball game, hard or soft, is scheduled in these precincts tomorrow, there isn't a spectator sport to be had this side of the Ashland fairground where the midget auto racers will carry on with their rained out Memorial day program.

* * *

Originally Johnny Villella and Joe Lesch had planned on the second showing of their Mansfield All-Stars softball aggregation, with the Toledo Page Dairies, state champions, furnishing the opposition. But the Page Dairies, who had accepted the date, discovered they didn't have enough players left to put a team in the field.

And the state champion Provident Loan girl softballers, believing the All-Stars would be performing tomorrow, scheduled a game at Springfield where they'll be meeting one of the toughest teams in last year's state tournament.

* * *

So those Mansfield sport fans who take their exercise sitting down, conducting a lung expansion program in vocal violence, will have nothing to cheer about.

* * *

But the energetic rest of us (hmmm) will hie ourselves to the hills and dales with golf clubs in hand, or the swimming pools with lotions in hand, the tennis courts with racquets in hand, or the badminton courts also with racquets in hand, or the nearby lakes with rod and reel or tiller or both in hand.

Some may even go for a little tramp in the woods, with posies in hand.

And all in all, we'll have the situation well in hand, never fear.

* * *

It's a situation we may as well be getting used to now. When gas rationing goes on, the spectator sports will be few and far between. Outside competition will be hard to get. And if we want our exercise we'll have to take it ourselves.

* * *

Since the story, which first appeared in this column, about the Page Dairies not being able to play, aroused enough interest to be carried state-wide by International News Service, maybe the sequel will find some interest here.

The Toledo Old Dutch management, which sent its semi-pro baseball team here last summer to meet, and beat the Ethiopian Clowns, has gathered up the Page Dairy players who are left, and this Old Dutch team is now available for games in Mansfield.

The Mansfield All-Star management can book the Dutchmen by writing to Len Shepherd, 1336½ Lincoln avenue, Toledo.

Shut Out and Alsab Favored

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Belmont stakes, which has enriched horse owners by $1,331,540 since its inauguration in 1867, will boost that total by $44,000 today while providing the touchstone that may lure approximately a quarter million dollars into the army and navy relief funds.

* * *

Alsab, Mrs. Al Sabath's Preakness winner, and Shut Out, the Kentucky Derby champion from the barn of Mrs. Payne Whitney, are the favorites for the third big crown open only to three-year-olds. Alsab is the top choice, at odds of 3 to 5. Six others are slated to start.

* * *

Belmont officials expect anywhere from 40,000 to 50,000 spectators for the final day of the spring program at the Long Island plant. If the latter attendance is reached, the betting may approach the $2,176,071 record of last Saturday.

The track's entire income of the day, less only the purses to the horsemen, will go to army-navy relief. The gift will range somewhere in the neighborhood of $100,000, may go as high as $125,000, and the nearby Jamacia track has promised to duplicate whatever Belmont gives.

BEETHAM ENTERS

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

SYMPATHETIC baseball fans can shed a tear today for Rookie Richard Fowler of the Philadelphia Athletics, who might have been pitching yet if it hadn't been for Walt Judnich of the surging St. Louis Browns.

For 15 innings last night, the 21-year-old Canadian-born right-hander blanked the Browns on eight hits. At the same time, however, his mates were finding Johnny Niggeling just as tough. Then George Caster relieved after 12 frames, and he proved even tougher.

* * *

So the teams moved into the 16th inning in the longest game in the major leagues this season and Judnich opened with a triple against the right field wall, only extra-base hit of the game.

* * *

Chet Laabs scored him with an outfield fly and the Browns took the 1-0 decision. The Athletics dropped back into the American league cellar, passing the Washington Senators on their way.

It took the Senators ten innings to wrest a 3-2 verdict from the Detroit Tigers in another of the three night games on the major league slate. Buck Newsom won his second game from his former teammates.

The Tiger defeat helped the New York Yankees add a full game to their American league lead. The Yanks stopped the second place Cleveland Indians, 6-3, stretching their margin to nine and a half games over both Cleveland and Detroit and notching their 24th victory in 28 games.

The Boston Red Sox protected their first division berth, half a game ahead of the fifth-place Browns, by turning back the Chicago White Sox, 4-2. Lou Finney drove in three of the Boston runs.

* * *

In the National league's only arc light tilt, the New York Giants moved into third place by whipping the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-1, on the four-hit pitching of Dave Koslo.

* * *

The Cardinal loss boosted the lead of the Brooklyn Dodgers to six and a half games, although Brooklyn split a double bill with the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers downed the Cubs, 6-3, in the opening game, but the Cubs pushed over a tenth inning run to win the second 4 to 3.

The Cincinnati Reds pulled the Boston Braves down into a fourth-place tie with them by taking both ends of a doubleheader, 3-2 and 6-1.

At Pittsburgh, the Pirates broke a ten-game losing streak, but they had to come from behind twice to nip the Philadelphia Phils, 6-5.

Midget Race Program Set

Well-Known Drivers Compete at Ashland.

ASHLAND—Ashland's Decoration day auto racing program, washed out by rain after two events, will be staged on the half-mile Ashland county fairgrounds oval Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m.

Seven events, topped by a 15-lap feature, grace the mid-season championship speed bill featuring speed kings from coast to coast, several of them famous Indianapolis 500-mile drivers and sectional champions.

* * *

Among the drivers listed for competition are three perennial 500-mile pilots, Iron Duke Nalon of Chicago, Paul Russo of Kenosha, and Mel Hansen, the Firecracker Kid from Los Angeles.

* * *

Also on hand will be Wild Bill Boyd of Steubenville, defending Ohio banked track champion; Elmo Green, Phoenix, defending Ohio point king; former world record holder Johnny Wohlfeil of Pontiac, Mike Little Johnstown, Pa., Roy Sherman of Los Angeles, erstwhile national outboard midget champion Eddie Ostwick of Detroit, and Deb Snyder of Kent.

Signed during the week following the rainout were several other stars including Bob Harnar, the Flying Amishman of Akron, who won the West Virginia Class B dirt track title last year, and George Jackson of Toledo, among others.

Charleston Ends Losing Streak

CANTON—(AP)—The Charleston Senators, leaders in the Mid-Atlantci league pennant chase, snapepd their three game losing streak with a 5-3 triumph at Canton last night and strengthened their hold on the coveted top spot.

* * *

Erie and Dayton split a doubleheader, Dayton taking the opener 5 to 3 and the Sailors the nightcap 6 to 3.

* * *

At Springfield, Outfielder Johnny Naponic put Zanesville out in front in the first inning with a home run and the Zanesvillers went on to win 5 to 4.

INDIANA DEFENDS CENTRAL MEET TITLE

MILWAUKEE — (INS) — With Indiana University as the defending champion, athletes from 29 colleges and universites were gathered in Milwaukee today for the 17th renewal of the Central Collegiate track meet.

Service men were admitted free of charge and a crowd of 10,000 was expected. Events were to begin this afternoon and continue through this evening.

Smith Drops Fifth Verdict

Tribe Hopes Chubby Dean Jinxes Yankees.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Al Smith's star was on the dimmer side of the Cleveland dugout today after the portside pitcher became the first Indian to lose five games this season.

To avenge Lefty Al's 6 to 3 defeat yesterday at the hands of the New York Yankees, the Redskins picked Chubby Dean to hurl today. Dean, a longtime Yankee nemesis, whipped them 7 to 2 at Cleveland last month.

* * *

It was the first and third innings which whipped Smith yesterday. New York scored three runs in the first inning on three walks, two singles and a double before Al fanned the ninth man he faced, Pitcher Lefty Gomez.

* * *

Smith allowed two more runs on three singles and a fielder's choice in the third frame before he went to the showers.

Meanwhile the Indians scored two runs in the second inning on two walks, a fielder's choice and an error. Their final marker came in the fifth when Les Fleming singled home Jeff Heath, who had doubled.

Joe Gordon Takes Batting Lead

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Second-baseman Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees replaced Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox, leader for three consecutive weeks, as the top batsman of major league clubs today, according to official tabulations of games played up to and including last Thursday.

* * *

Gordon chalked up a mark of .386, three percentage points better than Doerr, to regain the hitting leadership he held during the first week of the current season.

* * *

Catcher Babe Phelps of the Pittsburgh Pirates topped the National league batsmen for the second straight week with an average of .373. Pete Reiser moved up from fourth place to second with a .366, trailing Phelps by seven points.

Ernie Bonham, the forkball master of the Yankees, paced the major league pitchers with eight victories, which include four shutouts, without a defeat. Larry French led the senior circuit leather-hurlers with four triumphs and no setbacks.

Ex-Brave Hurles Neat Turn

STEVE GROMEK

One bright spot for Cleveland in the Indians' 6-3 defeat at Yankee stadium yesterday was the relief hurling of Steve Gromek, former Mansfield Brave shortstop who has been made over into a moundsman. Relieving Al Smith in the third with two runs in, two men on, and one out, Gromek retired the side, and held the Yankees scoreless with two hits until he was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—First reports trickling in from clubs that staged Red Cross tennis tournament last week-end indicate that the average take was $100 a club. . . . And since 300 or so clubs were on the list, the contribution wouldn't exactly give you hay fever. . . . Looks even bigger when you remember that tournament tennis is played mostly by young fellows who have more speed and endurance than dough. . . . Officials expect that, similar events July 4 and Labor day week-ends will do even better. . . . Regardless of how much the sectional groups take in this week-end on the qualifying rounds, the Hale America golf tourney looks like a financial success already. . . . The Ridgemoor club has pledged itself to buy $7,000 worth of tickets and the other 64 Chicago district clubs are organizing a selling drive. . . . Indications are the gate will reach $40,000 or $50,000.

Chiggers are small but mighty annoying pests, when you fall victim to their bites while walking through weeds or high grass. It is reported that 10 cents worth of oil of spearmint, or oil of peppermint (obtainable at your drugstore) is a sure preventive, although not a cure if you're bitten. Simply apply the oil with your finger to your shoes, socks, pants cuffs (if any) every two or three hours that you are out in the weeds or grass. The stuff has a pleasant odor, but chiggers do not like it, and stay away.

It pays to cultivate a keen eye and close observation of every tiny sight and sound when afield or in the woods. Many birds and small animals may be close at hand, yet unnoticed if one is not trained to observe closely. And it will make your trips far more enjoyable to be able to see some of the things that are sure to be watching you. Try it.

Class Titles Go on Line In Ohio Trapshoot Classic

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Class championships—200 targets at 16 yards—were up for decision today in Ohio's 56th annual Trapshooting tournament, but the marksmen still were talking about the weird windup to yesterday's handicap race.

* * *

Six shooters romped through the 100-target event and into a tie by breaking 97 each. One of them was George Mills, 36-year-old painter from Greenville, minus his left eye to an accident, and making his first start in the handicap affair.

* * *

But, when the smoke of the 50-target shoot-off had cleared, Wills was the winner and new champion, breaking the 50 extra clays in a row, three ahead of his nearest foe.

Wills came up to the last target of the 100 with a chance to win all by himself—but he missed to get into the tie. J. W. White of Springfield had even worse luck. He had missed but once in the first 95 shots, but he "blew" the 96th and 99th and wound up with 97.

Also in the shoot-off were Roy Izor of Farmersville, P. R. Cummings of Cedarville, L. O. Trees of Plain City, and W. H. Cox of Cincinnati. All but Cox were eliminated when they missed on the first 25 extra clays, but Cox and Mills went "straight." On the second 25, however, the Queen City marksman missed three times.

Wills, who never fired at a registered target until last year, succeeds the veteran Merk Hootman of Hicksville, 1913 Grand American Handicap winner, as state champ.

* * *

The doubles crown went to Karl Maust of Columbus, winner of the singles and all-around titles last year — and captor of the "Champion of Champions" race between state title holders at the "Roaring Grand." Maust broke 96. Defending champion Joe Hiestand of Hillsboro was second with 92.

* * *

Mrs. B. A. Roose of Salem captured the women's handicap laurels with 94 of 100. Mrs. George Peters of Springfield was second with 90, and defending champion Mrs. H. B. Rader of Jeffersonville third with 88.

Today's class championships have $700 in added money to be distributed to the high guns.

Johnny Neun Sparks Blues

Revamps Kansas City Into Real Ball Club.

(By Associated Press)

The best success story in the American Association can be pinned on Johnny Neun, Kansas City Blues' new manager, who reorganized the team from top to bottom this spring and now is watching it hit the jackpot.

Neun came in from Newark and Kansas City began jockeying for first position from the outset, finally surpassing Milwaukee with gusto.

* * *

The league leaders took a doubleheader from Toledo 4-3 and 4-2 last night to sweep a seven-game series in what was thought to be a record performance against a single team. The Blues now have won nine in a row and have taken 21 of 25 games played at home.

Columbus, meanwhile, swept a four-game series from Milwaukee with an 8-7 win which was jammed with 30 base hits. The Brewers collected 17 of them but left 14 players stranded.

Van Mungo of Minneapolis and Bill Sayles of Louisville displayed one of the best pitching duels of the year, with Mungo ultimately wresting a 4-0 shutout by spacing five hits. Sayles held the Millers to four blows.

Indianapolis hung up its sixth straight win and extended St. Paul's losing streak to 10 games by blasting out a 13-2 triumph.

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

RELATES DRAMA OF COVERING NAZIS AT WAR

Correspondent Reveals How Germans Slipped on Date Of Polish Campaign.

(Editor's Note: In the following story, Louis P. Lochner, chief of the former Wide World bureau in Berlin and now returned to New York, relates some of the dramatic developments experienced in covering the war.)

* * *

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

NEW YORK — (Wide World) —For the foreign correspondent stationed in Germany during the present war up to America's entry into it, one of the most dramatic moments came on that night in August, 1939, exactly one week before hostilities with Poland opened, when suddenly all connection with the outside world was broken off.

For weeks and weeks we had been expecting "Der Tag."

Our Berlin office had sent Angus M. Theurmer to Gleiwitz, near the Silesian-Polish border, because we knew the staff headquarters for the army which was to march into Polish Upper Silesia to be located there.

We tried also to send Edwin A. Shanke into East Purria to cover expected developments there, but he was refused permission to enter the area. Thuermer, incidentally, was allowed to remain only long enough to see the war start.

Then came that fateful night in August. Our long distance wires were in full operation.

Suddenly, in the midst of a sentence, sharply at 7 p. m., both the telephone and the telegraph stopped short.

We were cut off from the outside world by orders of the military!

It proved later that someone had slipped. Originally the war was to have started a week earlier, it seems, and when Hitler decided to postpone it nobody thought of issuing new instructions to the censors.

Within the next ten minutes we had telephone calls in for practically every capital in Europe. The telephone operators invariably inswered: "There is a temporary disturbance in the line."

Then came a lucky break: Across the street from us in the offices of the French Havas News Agency the direct wire into Paris had not been cut.

Our Havas colleagues permitted us to file our copy into Paris. To the amazement of the Germans, America next morning had a full story of developments in the war that didn't come off as scheduled.

By the time the war really started a week later, a control system was officially set up, amounting to a sort of honor system of self-censorship, under which we were able to get out news until the day of our arrest and internment Dec. 11, 1941.

The night of May 9, 1940, will also be remembered. It was the night before Hitler's armies inundated Holland Belgium.

One of the strange things about the war against Holland and Belgium was practically every foreign correspondent in Germany knew it was coming, yet very few Germans had any inkling of it.

Dramatic, too, were the incidents attendant upon Hitler's march into Soviet Russia June 22. It seems to me as though virtually everybody I had encountered knew the war was coming—that is, everybody except the Russian correspondents accredited to Berlin, and even they may have been pretending.

Late in May one of my informants whose information had always proved true came to tell me that at 3 a. m. on the fourth Sunday in June Hitler would march into Russia. I checked with our American military attaches, who said all reports indicated that tremendous army concentrations were in progress on the German-Russian front.

Evidence kept piling in on our office that the informant was right, although no other source was so precise as to date and even hour.

On June 21 I decided to let my car stand before my house that night, because undoubtedly the foreign office would summon the correspondents to a press conference in the wee hours of the morning as they had done in the case of Poland, Denmark and Norway, Holland and Belgium, and Yugoslavia and Greece.

At 3:20 a. m. the foreign office rang up to say that at 5 a. m. there would be an important conference conducted by the foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, himself.

The attack had begun.

PROFIT TAKING ACTION SLOWS DOWN RECOVERY

Oil Supplies Pile Up Due to Shipping Shortage; Drinkers Cheered.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks extended their 3-day recovery swing by fractions in today's market proceedings although some profit taking tended to impede the advance.

On the upside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Sears Roebuck, N. Y. Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, General Motors, United Aircraft and American Smelting.

Holders of oil shares found scant encouragement in the summary of the Bureau of Mines indicating stocks of domestic and foreign crude petroleum as of May 30 totaled 255,025,000 barrels, an increase of 1,600,000 barrels over the previous week. The piling up of supplies was attributed mainly to shipping shortages.

Distillery company issues were studied as whiskey makers prepared to convert their facilities entirely to production of industrial alcohol by early autumn. The opinion was expressed, however, that the public would not be stinted because 550,000,000 gallons of whiskey now are being aged in warehouses while annual consumption runs around 120,000,000.

OHIOANS HEED COAL WARNING

Sales Tax Receipts Drop But Fuel Purchases Increase.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohioans are taking seriously the admonition to buy next winter's coal now, a report by State Treasurer Don H. Ebright showed today.

Ebright disclosed that while sales tax receipts for the period ending May 23 dropped $708,168 below income for the same period last year, revenues from the fuel and ice division jumped from $56,632 in April to $167,898 this year.

A treasurer's office attache said ice dealers reported no appreciable increase in sales during the period, while coal firms declared the sale of fuel had bounded upward, even beyond delivery capacity in some instances.

Statisticians report that only 11,880,000 tons of crude rubber have been imported into the country in the 100-year period from 1840 to 1941. In the latter year, the nation's consumption was around 600,000 tons, but in the years prior to development of the automobile the use of rubber was comparatively small.

It was unknown whether the anticipated drive for scrap rubber would materially alter the outlook on nation-wide rationing of gasoline. Officials who attended the White House meeting were determined to remain silent on the controversial issue.

Meantime, congressmen continued their vigorous efforts to forestall the rationing program and an eight-man house committee was named to investigate the situation. The group is headed by Rep Kleberg (D) Texas, and includes Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R) Ohio.

BRITISH SMASH AHEAD IN LIBYA

Gain First Objective With Artillery, Counter-Thrust At Rommel Units.

The British tank reinforcements arrived at Bir Hacheim, garrisoned by Free French forces, after Axis units which failed in a previous attempt to storm the oasis stronghold, succeeded in partially encircling the base.

Behind the imperial artillery batteries, covering an area several miles in depth behind the line running from El Gazala to Bir Hacheim, deep rows of British tanks, including American-made "General Grant" units, awaited the signal for a forward thrust should Rommel attempt a new offensive.

It was estimated that Rommel so far has lost half of his original front line tank strength in his futile attempt to march on the fortress of Tobruk along the Mediterranean coast. A total of 340 Nazi panzer units were said to have been knocked out.

Air Vice Marshal Arthur Coningham declared that half of the German Stuka dive-bombers in the front-line fighting in the desert had been destroyed.

Murder On the Avenue

By Carolyn Wells

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XXIX

Hugh greeted Stone perfunctorily.

"Glad to see you, sir," he said. "You've seen Captain Raynor?"

"Yes, Mr. McCleod. He has told me all the details. Tell me, can I help you?"

"I'd be glad if you could. But all I can think of to do, is to prove that Mr. Murray killed my sister. There can be no doubt about it, Mr. Stone. Ogden Murray was here in the house; he was angry with Emmy, and disappointed at her refusal to buy his stock. Now, my sister was a high-tempered woman, and I have no doubt she said harsh things to the young man. She could be very scathing with her tongue. She very likely roused his anger to such an extent that he acted on impulse, not meaning to do more than frighten her But Emmy's heart was weak, and his brutal actions proved fatal. Was it then, not natural that he should go away quietly, and after a walk to his office, be calm and cool when you saw him there?"

"All you say may be true, Mr. McCleod, but we have no proof that it is so. Dunn, your sister's butler, can tell nothing helpful?"

"No; you see, he is also a sort of nurse to my father. Though confined to his bed, my father needs no trained attendant, and he refuses to have one. But Dunn is exceedingly competent, and willing, so he doubles as butler and nurse. Emmy has also a cook and two maids, and there is really no room for another attendant in her apartment. Though, of course, it could be managed if necessary."

"Your sister was coming down here to live with you?"

"Not so long as father lived, we decided. The doctor agreed that it would be unwise to subject our invalid to the change of surroundings—but that was when—when Emmy was with him. Now — I don't know — I don't know."

"Is your father conscious?"

"Part of the time, and then, only partly conscious. His mind is never entirely clear. But, Mr. Stone, I have no right to inflict on you the tale of my private troubles. Tell me, it is not necessary, is it, that I should take any active part in the search for Emmy's murderer? I was down here in my apartment, I had no guests, but Dickson was in and out, and I just sat in my smoking room, thinking what I had better do about father. I mean, whether to have him brought down here."

Hugh seemed to fall into a dull, half-asleep mood, and Stone decided it was a good time to leave.

He went next to the caterer's shop on Madison avenue where the brother of Hugh's valet, Dickson, was employed, and from there he telephoned to Dickson. This resulted in a secret session between him and Stone.

They were alone in a small back room, and Stone looked his man straight in the eye, and said, slowly, but with emphasis:

"The time has come, Dickson, when you must give up."

"Yes, sir," he replied. It was just the voice of a man racked with grief.

"You expected this?"

"Expected what, Mr. Stone?"

"That you would have to tell all, sooner or later?"

"I suppose so — no! I don't know."

"Wake up, Dickson. You are going to tell me all you know and all you think. I understand your position, I know your loyalty, but right is above all else. You must give in to right."

Dickson sat up straight, and though he looked utterly miserable, it was easy to see he understood the situation and realized his responsibility.

"You've been with Mr McCleod a long time, I believe."

"More than ten years, sir."

"You are devoted to him?"

"He saved me, Mr. Stone, I was on a downward path, and he took me and made an honest man out of a rascal."

"Then you had cause for gratitude. But that, Dickson, cannot condone crime."

"No, sir."

"And so, Dickson, as you are an honest man, are you not willing to tell the truth to save another honest man—even though it must result in the accusation of someone you care for?"

"Must I be dragged into it?"

"Yes, Dickson. It is your imperative duty, and you cannot escape it."

"Nor I cannot escape it. Mr Stone, I cannot—I will not! I will run away. I will disappear, but to tell what I know—I would rather cut my tongue out!"

"Now Dickson," Stone spoke kindly. "How is this for a plan? You go back to the McCleod house, say nothing of having seen me, or of this conversation. Until—after Miss Emmy's funeral That is tomorrow, I believe."

"Yes, sir; tomorrow afternoon."

"Very well, Mr. McCleod will need you then. Go to him, just as usual, and I trust you to answer when I call you, after that."

"Yes, Mr. Stone; you may trust me."

Stone left Dickson, and went to see Brand Herrick.

"Well, I've played Dan Cupid for you," he began. "Did you say Miss Deane was a shy, timid violet?"

"That's all I remember of her; but we didn't have a confidential talk."

"I'll say you didn't! She told me you paid her no more attention than if she had been a black beetle."

Brand Herrick laughed heartily. It was the first time Stone had heard him laugh since his arrest.

"I didn't know she had spunk enough to say a thing like that!" Herrick exclaimed. "What else did she say?"

"She said—brace yourself, now—she said she would let the Webb money go to improve Ebbitt's Corners, before she would marry a man who might be a murderer."

Brand didn't laugh then. He said, "Did you tell her I might be one?"

"No, you know I didn't. I told her, I proposed to free you of any such suppositions. But I think, and I know Miss Malcolm thinks that the young lady resented more hotly your treating her like a black beetle than the possibility of your homicidal tendencies. Anyhow, she's no shrinking violet."

"Then it looks as if Ebbitt's Corners is to be the beneficiary, after all."

"That may be. Now Brand, I've a hope of finding out who killed the two McCleod ladies. But I'm not telling you any more about it until after tomorrow when I shall put my notion to the test."

"Give me a hint of your game, Stone. Have they arrested Murray?"

"No, not enough evidence."

"What's that to 'em? They arrested me with no real evidence at all!"

"Well, if I put my trick over, you can sue them for that. Now, tomorrow afternoon Miss McCleod's funeral will be held. I think I shall not attend, though I may. But after that is over, I shall get busy on your affairs. If you don't hear from me by midnight, just wait till the next day. I must go now, so good night."

Stone went away, conscious of a slight qualm lest he had unduly raised Brand's hopes, but he thought a little hopefulness would be good for him, even if it never materialized.

And by reason of it, Brand Herrick slept soundly all night.

The next morning Stone, partly out of curiosity went to see Mr. and Miss Monk, who were in jail.

* * *

The visit netted him little, for Ben Monk was surly and unwilling to talk, and his sister, if that was her relationship, openly resented questions. But there was a little discussion of John Wiley, and Stone learned that Una's father was suffering from an internal growth, that left him no hope of a long life.

Then the detective made a short call on Van Dyke Haynes, and after that went to the McCleod house. But he entered Angus' apartment not Hugh's. He found Dunn in faithful attendance on the old man.

The funeral services were not yet over, and Stone took the opportunity to have a talk with the butler.

Though taciturn, Dunn, once made to understand that it was his duty both to God and to the state to tell everything he was asked, became almost loquacious. He admitted Miss Emmy had a terrible temper, as also had her brother Hugh. He volunteered the information that Hugh was inimical to all animal pets in the house. And that once he had wrung the neck of Miss Emmy's canary bird because its singing annoyed him.

JUNE 1
GLORYOSKY, HANNA... JUNE THE FIRST!! I LIKE ALL THE MONTHS, BUT I GUESS I LIKE JUNE THE BEST OF ALL
'CAUSE IN JUNE YOU DON'T HAVE TO WORRY 'BOUT ICE AN' SNOW--AN' IT'S NOT TOO HOT AN' IT'S NOT TOO COLD--IT'S JUST RIGHT--
THE SKY IS NICE AN' BLUE, THE SUN SHINES NICE AN' FRIENDLY--IN JULY AN' AUGUST, IF YOU STAY OUT IN THE SUN, YOU GET ALL COVERED WITH SUNBURN AN' BLISTERS--
DARRELL McCLURE
BUT IN JUNE YOU CAN STAY OUT IN THE SUNSHINE ALL DAY LONG AN' YOU DON'T HAVE TO WORRY 'BOUT NOTHIN' --YOU FEEL GLAD ALL OVER
GEE, ELLA, I JUST LOVE VIOLETS--THEY LOOK LIKE TINY PIECES OF BLUE SKY THAT DROPPED DOWN TO THE GROUND JUST TO MAKE FOLKS HAPPY
I LOVE 'EM, TOO--BUT I DIDN'T KNOW THEY WERE FREE--I THOUGHT THE ONLY WAY YOU COULD GET VIOLETS WAS TO BUY 'EM IN A FLOWER STORE
HONEST, I NEVER THOUGHT OF THAT--I GUESS VIOLETS WERE MADE 'SPECIALLY FOR POOR FOLKS AN'--LISTEN, ELLA! THAT MAN ON THE WAGON IS CALLIN' MR. OLIVER NAMES
DARRELL McCLURE
OLD ORPHAN OLIVER CALLS THE OLD SUGAR FACTORY AND ALL THE LAND AROUND IT HIS PRIVATE RESIDENCE--BUT I THINK OLD OLIVER IS NOTHIN' BUT A FOXY OLD SQUATTER!
WHAT'S THE MATTER, ANNIE--ARE YOU SICK?
OH, NO--I'M NOT SICK--BUT I'M KINDA WORRIED
YESTERDAY, WHEN I WAS OUT NEAR THE HIGHWAY PICKING VIOLETS WITH ELLA, WE HEARD TWO MEN TALKIN' 'BOUT MR OLIVER
WHAT DID THEY SAY?
WELL, ONE MAN CALLED MR OLIVER A FOXY, OLD SQUATTER
A SQUATTER? THAT SOUNDS LIKE AN UGLY NAME--WHAT DOES IT MEAN?
DARRELL McCLURE
6-3
THE DICTIONARY SEZ A SQUATTER IS A MAN WHO DOESN'T OWN THE PLACE HE LIVES IN HA, HA--LOTS OF PEOPLE DON'T OWN THE PLACE THEY LIVE IN--THEY'RE NOT SQUATTERS--THEY'RE JUST TENANTS!
WELL, WHAT DID YOU FIND OUT? DOES THE COUNTY RECORDS SHOW THAT OLD OLIVER REALLY OWNS HIS PRIVATE RESIDENCE OR IS HE JUST A SQUATTER?
PAY TAXES HERE
COUNTY RECORDER
I'M NOT SURE--THE COUNTY RECORDS ONLY SHOW THE ORIGINAL OWNER DIED SUDDENLY, LEAVING A FLOCK OF THIRTY-SECOND COUSINS WHO ALL CLAIM THEY ARE HIS LEGAL HEIRS
THEN HE IS A SQUATTER AND CAN BE TOSSED OUT ON HIS EAR!!
NOT SO FAST, BOSS--HE MAY BE ONE OF THE HEIRS--HE MAY BE THE RECEIVER APPOINTED BY THE COURT--HE MAY BE A TENANT--HE MAY BE--
NOW, DON'T YOU GO WORRYING ABOUT MR. OLIVER BEING A SQUATTER--MR OLIVER NEVER DID, OR NEVER WILL DO, ANYTHING MEAN OR UNDERHANDED--I'VE BEEN HERE TEN YEARS AND I HAVEN'T STARTED WORRYING YET
DARRELL McCLURE
LOOK, HARRY, THOSE SWEET LITTLE GIRLS--AS BUSY AS TWO LITTLE BEAVERS--I THINK THEY'RE WONDERFUL
I AGREE WITH YOU
BUT REMEMBER, DEAR, WE ONLY WANT TO ADOPT ONE LITTLE GIRL--AND YOU HAVE FALLEN IN LOVE WITH EVERY CHILD ON THE PLACE
I'VE A FEELING I'VE FOUND THE LITTLE DAUGHTER I'VE LONGED FOR 6-5
YOU'RE A SWEET LITTLE GIRL TO BE WORKING SO HARD ON YOUR VICTORY FARM
THANK YOU--IT'S NOT MY FARM--I'M JUST ANNIE'S HELPER--SHE'S TEACHING ME THE FARMER BUSINESS
OH, ELLA, DON'T SAY THAT--YOU'RE ONLY HERE A COUPLE OF WEEKS AN' YOU'RE A SWELL FARMER ALREADY! PRETTY SOON, I'LL BETCHA, YOU'LL BE TWICE AS SMART AS I AM, 'CAUSE YOU'RE ALWAYS DOIN' MORE THAN YOUR SHARE--
DARRELL McCLURE
OH, ANNIE, IT'S LIKE A DREAM! TO THINK, OUT OF ALL THE NICE KIDS, THEY PICKED ME TO BE THEIR LITTLE GIRL--IS IT REALLY AN' TRULY TRUE?
OF COURSE IT'S TRUE--YESTERDAY, WHEN I SAW THE WAY THAT LOVELY LADY LOOKED AT YOU, I SAID TO MYSELF, "ELLA'S GONNA HAVE A FATHER AN' MOTHER!"
GOODBYE, ELLA--AN' DON'T YOU CRY ANY MORE OR MAYBE YOUR FOLKS WON'T KNOW YOU'RE CRYIN', 'CAUSE YOU'RE HAPPY
COME, DEAR--MUSTN'T KEEP YOUR FATHER AND MOTHER WAITING
DARRELL McCLURE
GEE, ZERO--BUT ELLA'S LUCKY! NOW, SHE'S GOT FOLKS AN' A HOME JUST LIKE REGULAR KIDS HAVE--'COURSE, THIS PLACE IS SWELL, BUT I GUESS THERE'S NOTHIN' AS NICE FOR ANY KID AS A FATHER AN' MOTHER
